ENERGY & COMMISSIONING

We believe energy conservation is an ethic, and we practice it throughout the design and construction on each project.

ABOUT OUR SERVICES

Our team of energy experts prides itself on helping campuses and buildings achieve energy efficiency and sustainability goals by performing energy modeling and audits, commissioning throughout design and construction, and advocating via energy code work and training.

To date, PDG has provided energy and commissioning services for several million square feet of space for a variety of clients, including educational, healthcare, municipal, and industrial clients. Our dedicated team applies our extensive knowledge and experience to both new and existing buildings throughout project design, construction, and operation and maintenance. Our team advocates for building owners and works with design and construction professionals to improve energy efficiency and enhance project delivery.

PDG is a primary energy consultant for NYSERDA New Construction and FlexTech programs. We also provide PDH training for the 2020 Energy Conservation Construction Code of New York State.
